

Darren - Main Character

Timothy - Darren's Friend

-Darren and Timothy have been friends since they were little children playing as monster slayers. But now Darren's all grown up and spends time with people who bully people like Timothy who are into that childish stuff.

-Darren's group picks on Timothy who proceeds to tell Darren that the two are no longer friends unless he can change his ways and stand up for his friends.

-Darren returns home, obviously broken up, and begins reading his old comics that he and Timothy used to read. He falls asleep and enters a dream-like state.

-He wakes up to find himself in a dark world full of monsters who resemble the people he hangs out with. Timothy has turned into a badass monster hunter who does not remember Darren.

-Timothy explains that they must kill the king monster who has been influencing other people and turning them into monsters or else they will all be killed.

-Darren's disbelief and stubbornness sets the two back but they eventually push forwards, fighting monsters. It's all campy and cheesy and unbelievable.

-Darren and Timothy finally confront the king of monsters who is revealed to look and act suspiciously similar to that of Darren. Shocked by this revelation and how he's treated Timothy Darren himself tries to take the monster king down, in the process accidentally killing Timothy.

-The two monologue and Darren runs after the monster king hoping to land the final blow on him.

-Darren wakes up from the dream as a changed person. He now sees his views of selfish and detrimental to Timothy.

-He leaves his house at night and runs to Timothy's place. He throws a rock at his window with his comic books in hand and the two share a moment reading comics through the night.