

Josh's Museum of not being able to come up with a better name

I would choose this piece because I feel like it conveys exhaustion and sleep. These are two characteristics I feel I experience every day due to all of the stuff I have going on in my life.

I would keep this picture because it shows two different sides, an organized and colorful half, and a chaotic and colorless half. I relate to this painting because when my life is more organized, I usually show more joy or color.

I chose this photo because it is a bleak landscape filled with a single tree. I connect with this photo because I sometimes feel alone in a situation.

I did not choose this painting because I couldn't really find a way that I related with it to justify putting it in my museum.

I would not choose this painting because it is so abstract that I can't get any meaning from it all.
